

Terms and Conditions for Strathallan Activity Camp

1. Parental Authority

The parent/s authorise/s the coaches while in loco parentis to take and/or to authorise, in good faith, all decisions that safeguard and promote the welfare of the participant.

2. Conduct

Strathallan School attaches importance to courtesy, manners and good discipline. The staff are responsible for the care and good discipline of participants while they are on the Strathallan campus (and not under the control of a parent or guardian). The parent/s however, authorise/s the use of such physical restraint and encouragement for the participant as may be legal, appropriate and proper in any particular circumstance, to maintain good discipline and good order.

It is a condition of remaining on the camp that the parent/s and the participant accept the Camp regime, the maintenance of good order, discipline and courtesy towards the coaches and fellow attendees. Should a participant be removed from the camp because of unacceptable behaviour or significant breach of good conduct, the parent/s accept/s that no refund will be made.

3. Injury & Insurance

The parent/s accept/s that no claim may be made against Strathallan School, or any coach, for injury or loss, unless this specifically results from an act of omission or negligence on the part of the School or coach. The parent/s must ensure/s that they take out personal injury and third party liability insurance on behalf of the participant.

4. Data Protection

Strathallan School will hold the data included in the registration form for the purposes of running the camps in accordance with current data protection regulations. Medical information contained herein will be passed to the staff for the duration of the camp. All sensitive data will be destroyed thereafter.
